

Alan Schussheim

Volunteer Consultant
Consultant Since: 2018

OneSource

3610 Park 42 Drive
Cincinnati, OH 45241
Telephone: 513.554.4944

Professional History

- Procter & Gamble

Education

- B.S., Operations
Research/Industrial Engineering,
Cornell University

Certifications

- Certified Information Systems
Security Professional
- Simplicity Technical Problem
Solving, Levels I & II
- Six Sigma Green Belt
- MSP-Program Management

Innovative, transformative, and driven to implement operational excellence are the words that best describe Alan's almost twenty-eight-year career with Procter & Gamble. Prior to retirement, he was Section Manager, Global Information Security, where he oversaw international cyber security operations. Alan is particularly adept at identifying and resolving the root causes of seemingly intractable issues. His skill set includes process improvement and re-engineering, application development and implementation, and project management. Throughout his career, he was known for leading with integrity and developing and managing cross-functional teams. His goal was to transform complex processes into standardized and simplified operational models.

Alan brings the same passion to his volunteer activities. As both director and founder of the Warren County Foodbank, he created the first and only virtual foodbank in Ohio. He is a former board member of the Warren County United Way and Madcap Puppets. He has been a volunteer with Habitat for Humanity for nearly 30 years and is a past volunteer/adult chaperone with the William Mason High School Marching Band and Wind Symphony.

OneSource Experience

As a new consultant, Alan looks forward to using his training and consulting skills to help local nonprofits improve their operations.