Professional History

- Consultant
- Duke Energy

Education

- B.S., Accounting, Ball State University

Trained as a CPA, Don was Director of Rate Services for Duke Energy until his retirement. His responsibilities included handling accounting projects for a Duke subsidiary, preparing financial statements, overseeing management reporting, conducting financial analyses and handling government relations. Following retirement, he established a consulting practice to advise clients on electric rate issues.

Don's financial acumen is put to use at Crossroads Church, where he volunteers his time to advise younger people on financial planning and budgeting. As a volunteer with the Cincinnati Observatory, he conducts research on scientific instruments; leads history tours; and operates the telescope.

OneSource Experience

Don began volunteering with ESCC in 2011 and was designated Co-Program Manager for the Freestore Foodbank Nonprofit Leadership Institute. He rejoined OneSource in 2018 and looks forward to applying his financial expertise to client projects.
