Vic is a distinguished management, leadership and talent management expert with more than twenty-seven years' experience across many different sectors. He is a former senior manager with ConAgra Brands, and founded a consulting company, Vienesse, Inc. Vic has been an adjunct professor, teaching courses in marketing, organizational behavior, management, and nonprofit finance. His core competencies include organizational development, strategy, analytics, business planning, change management, process improvement, P&L management and financial discipline, and talent development.

Vic translates his corporate expertise effectively into the nonprofit community. As a former Superintendent of Houston's Southwest Schools, he led the district's effectiveness and compliance audit. Among his accomplishments was a program that encouraged pregnant teens to remain in school, developing a career and technology program and retaining the district's charter with the state. As a volunteer, he is involved with mission work, business mentoring, and serving as a coach and trainer for Ohio South Youth Soccer.

OneSource Experience
