Our Honorees

The HealthCare Connection – Nonprofit Community Partner Honoree

The HealthCare Connection, is a nationally and regionally recognized leader in providing quality, culturally sensitive and accessible health, dental care and behavioral health services serving the medically underserved, underinsured and uninsured residing in northern Hamilton County and surrounding areas. The visionary nonprofit began in 1967 in Lincoln Heights utilizing six volunteers with a $10,000 grant from the City of Lincoln Heights and has grown to have six locations, serving over 17,300 patients through approximately 43,000 office visits yearly. It is no surprise to see why this exemplary organization is the recipient of the OneSource Center's Community Partner Award.

At the time of the HealthCare Connection's initial office opening, Lincoln Heights was the largest self-governed African American city in the nation -- but even with that standing, there were no physicians or dentists practicing there. Founding visionary leader and recently retired CEO Dolores J. Lindsay saw the need, rallied support, and established the first community health center in the state of Ohio for patients that may not have otherwise been able to afford the health care services they needed and deserved. The organization has garnered numerous national awards, and recently collaborated with TriHealth to provide COVID-19 testing through its locations, offered free to those who could not afford to pay.

A long-time member of OneSource Center, utilizing our consulting, training and Shoppers Club offerings, OneSource Center is proud to acknowledge The HealthCare Connection and its belief that everyone deserves quality health care. For their impactful leadership in our community, we award The HealthCare Connection with the OneSource Center 2020 Community Partner Award. Accepting the award is Dolores J. Lindsay, Founder.

Photonics, Inc. – Corporate Community Partner Honoree

Photonics, Inc., a highly respected and top-rated Cincinnati-based web design and graphic design company, is the recipient of the 2020 OneSource Center Community Partner Award. With early roots in the photography/design arena, Photonics grew with expanding technologies to be named one of the "Top 25 Web Design Firms" in the Business Courier's Book of Lists for multiple years in a row. Today the Photonics team collaborates with both multinational and regional clients working across multiple business sectors giving each account its signature personalized customer service.

Alan Brown, Photonics' founder and President, has incorporated philanthropy into the Photonics business model since its founding, crediting his inspiration from his wife's giving nature and his own commitment to faithful stewardship. The agency has donated uncountable hours of creative direction and product development to dozens of nonprofits through the 31 years Alan has owned the company with photography, collateral and ad production, graphic and web design. Nonprofits receiving services range from leading arts organization (including the Cincinnati Opera, the Cincinnati Ballet and the Cincinnati Symphony) to the Boy Scouts, faith-based groups, and agencies addressing the needs of medically challenged or the underserved in our region. Recipients of these pro bono services describe the quality as exceptional, with an intentionality in understanding the core need of the deliverables for optimum impact. No matter the size of the project, Photonics has delivered without expectation of fanfare or recognition, but with an emphasis on doing "the right thing."

Join us in applauding Photonics, Inc. as a leader in corporate responsibility and philanthropic support. Alan Brown, President, accepts the OneSource Center 2020 Corporate Partner Award.

Dick Fencl – OneSource Center Founder’s Award – Dick Fencl

Twenty-five years ago Executive Service Corps of Cincinnati (ESCC), one of two founding predecessor organizations to OneSource Center, was founded. This year’s Founder’s Award honors one of the early leaders in that organization, Dick Fencl, and thanks him for his continued impact at OneSource Center today. Now one of OneSource Center’s longest serving consultants, Dick served on the ESCC board for 9 years, six of these years as board chair. He and ESCC founder George Dersheimer started the coaching component of the current EXCEL Leadership Development program, a program he still supports today. Dick has worked on uncountable consulting projects, and was one of the early leads in our important work at Cincinnati Public Schools.

Upon retiring from P&G after 36 years in manufacturing management, Dick embraced his belief in servant leadership, volunteering with multiple organizations dealing with issues of diversity and inclusion, the environment, poverty and education. A world traveler, Dick focuses on fostering mutual understanding, and supports programs through the World Affairs Council and the Foreign Policy Association that show we are more alike than different, and he also serves on the OneSource Center Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Committee. Dick and his wife Carol volunteered for years with inner city kids, sharing with them their love of the natural world through the Sierra Club’s Inner City Outings program. Additionally, Dick has served on grant review committees for the Greater Cincinnati Foundation and for cancer research through the US government.

Dick Fencl is a role model for philanthropic “hands on” volunteerism and giving. Celebrate with us as we honor Dick Fencl for his impact on our community and our world with the 2020 OneSource Center Founder’s Award.

Congratulations to our Honorees!
