Rena is a senior sales training and management executive. Prior to retirement, she was employed for more than 20 years at CSL Behring. During her time with the company, she rose from Senior Manager of Sales and Training to Associate Director, Learning and Growth. Earlier in her career, she held senior training positions with Smithkline Beecham. She started her career at Brotman Medical Center where she served as a licensed medical technologist. Throughout her career, Rena was recognized as an innovator in training technology and as an advocate for continuous improvement of programs and tools that supported corporate strategic objectives. Rena has special expertise in sales and the design, creation and implementation of learning tools for face-to-face or for web-based training.

OneSource Experience

As a new volunteer, Rena looks forward to participating in coaching and leadership development training.
