Dr. Sean Reynolds has more than four decades of experience in training, coaching, mentoring, adult education, team building and organizational development. He is a founding partner of Mustard Seed Consultants LLC, and an associate trainer and consultant with Spirit Seminars & Consulting, Cincinnati, OH. Through many years of service to faith-based organizations, Sean knows the challenges that most nonprofits face as they strive for high-value goals with limited staff and resources.

Sean has served businesses, government, nonprofits and churches by providing a full spectrum of adult development strategies customized to meet specific client needs. From curriculum design, to high-impact instructional presentations, skills development, experiential learning and coaching, he helps people grow in competence and confidence at the service of the organization's mission.

His training in organizational development has equipped him to assess and address the many challenges that can keep leaders up at night. Sean's passion is to help people avoid burnout through better work/life balance and by cultivating healthy habits of self-care.

OneSource Experience

As a new volunteer, Sean looks forward to designing and facilitating leadership development efforts as well as assisting with board development, change management and business improvement projects.
