Rajesh Sharma is highly experienced in managing and fostering all aspects of quality assurance, from Research & Development to consumer satisfaction. Throughout his career, he has delivered proven results in tightening quality standards, eliminating quality issues, and improving customer satisfaction while managing multi-billion-dollar brands in food, beauty care, fabric and home care, and paper products.

Rajesh spent most of his career working at Procter and Gamble for over 30 years. Most recently, he worked as Director, Industrial Microbiology Americas, Corporate Quality Assurance. In that role, he set direction for the Microbiology program, qualified all site microbiologists, ensured robust programs to eliminate risk, evaluated new innovations and advancements in the field of microbiology, and led Global, Regional Microbiology and Analytical Networks. During his time at Procter, Rajesh also served as Global Air Care & Surface Care Platform Quality Assurance Manager and as P&G's London Plant Quality Assurance Manager.

Professionally active in the field of quality assurance, Rajesh is a fellow member with the American Society of Quality (ASQ). Rajesh previously was a board member with ASQExcellence (ASQE) and chair for the Cincinnati section of ASQ.

OneSource Experience

As a OneSource volunteer, Rajesh looks forward to working on business solutions and leadership development projects.
